

Press Release

Back to Croquet

In line with Government guidance on the easing of restrictions on some sports, the Croquet Association (CA) is delighted to announce that many croquet clubs are reopening for their members, on or after Wednesday 13th May.

Media reports on lockdown easing have focussed on sports like golf, tennis and basketball, with the glaring omission of croquet which is the perfect 'social distancing' sport. A croquet court is twice the size of a tennis court, so playing against a member of your household, or one other person from outside your household, is no problem at all.

The CA has reviewed latest Government guidance and, as long as it is permitted, takes the view that reopening croquet clubs is good for the physical and mental well-being of the ~8,000 individuals who are members of croquet clubs across England and Wales, over the coming weeks and months.

The CA has acted swiftly to provide practical guidance¹ to its 212 member clubs, and are continually reviewing recommendations, in conversation with other sports governing bodies.

Members are rushing to book lawn time amid mounting excitement at being able to return to this fun, challenging, and mentally engaging outdoor sport.
